Shooting with today's cameras Today's cameras are available in a wide range of features. Photoshop is designed to work with today's cameras, though there are limitations. Chapter 6 provides a deeper look at how to make use of today's cameras' features.

* Adjustment Brushes allow you to fine-tune the appearance of an image in various ways. * Burn and dodge tools let you alter the image's white and black levels. * The Smart Brush helps you quickly adjust a single area in the image by clicking and dragging the brush. * The Gradient tool lets you add a linear gradient to your image. A linear gradient is a set of colors that flow from one area to another. * The paint bucket tool allows you to fill areas of your image with colors. It is similar to the paintbrush tool that comes with Photoshop. * The eraser tool allows you to erase pixels from an image by either using the lasso tool (see the next section) or by surrounding the area you want to erase with a soft-edged selection (or clipping path). * The magic wand tool allows you to select similar areas in an image by clicking once on an image with the wand tool, and then clicking again to select the next area. * Lasso tools are useful for creating photo montages. * Magic Wand allows you to select all the similar items in a single image. * Paths allow you to draw over portions of an image. * Radial filters (see Chapter 5) such as the Soft Light filter and the Detail filter are used for reducing noise and sharpening an image. * The Stylize filter is similar to the Sketch filter, which allows you to make quick modifications to your image. * The Spot Healing Brush tool allows you to edit a single spot on an image. * The Spot Healing Brush can be combined with filters to create more complex effects. * The Spot Healing Brush can remove unwanted objects from your image. * The Smudge tool is a brush-like tool used for softening or blurring edges. * The Smudge tool can be combined with filters to create more complex effects. * The Tilt-Shift filter (see Chapter 5) creates a foreground and background blur effect that creates the illusion of a photograph having been taken at a different angle. * The Twirl filter (see Chapter 5) simulates the effect of a rotary motion blur. * The Unique Layers feature allows you to save an entire layer of an image and apply it to a different image. You can go to the top of the Layers panel to quickly toggle through layers

What's New in the?

Q: opencv segmentation example I downloaded a python opencv example in which an image has a window which is opened on top of the image and contains an image and a text. When you click on the window or on the image, the corresponding window to the clicked area opens. I would like to do the same with MATLAB. I would like to open a window with two images and a text and the two images must be mirrored, that is, each image should be mirrored about the horizontal axis. is there an example for this? I'm trying to do something like this: im1 = imread('z.jpg'); im2 = double(im1); im3 = double(im2); im4 = im2 - im1; im5 = im2 - im1(:,:,1); im6 = im2 - im1(:,:,2); im7 = im2 - im1(:,:,3); im8 = im2 - im1(:, :,4); im9 = im2 - im1(:, :,5); im10 = im2 - im1(:, :,6); im11 = im2 - im1(:, :,7); im12 = im2 - im1(:, :,8); im13 = im2 - im1(:, :,9); im14 = im2 - im1(:, :,10); im15 = im2 - im1(:, :,11); im16 = im2 - im1(:, :,12); im17 = im2 - im1(:, :,13); im18 = im2 - im1(:, :,14); im19 = im2 - im1(:, :,15); im20 = im2 - im1(:, :,16); im21 = im2 - im1(:, :,17); im22 = im2 - im1(:, :,18); im23 = im2 - im1(:, :,19); im24 = im2 - im1(:, :,20); im25 = im2 - im1(:, :,21); im26 = im2 - im1(:, :,22); im27 = im2 - im1(:, :,23); im28 = im2 - im1(:, :,24); im29 = im2 - im1(:, ,
