Pregnancy and elevated levels of sex hormones during adolescence may induce melanocytic proliferation and maturation, which may increase melanoma risk. We examined the association of pregnancy and elevated serum sex hormone levels during adolescence with melanoma incidence and melanoma-specific mortality. We conducted a cohort study of women registered in the Danish Civil Registration System who were born 1955-1990 and were diagnosed with a first primary melanoma from 1991-2009. We used information on pregnancy and levels of sex hormones from our previous study (Hjalgrim et al., 2015) and calculated melanoma incidence and melanoma-specific mortality. Cox regression was used to estimate hazard ratios (HRs) and 95% confidence intervals (CIs). The participants were 297 655 women with 218 184 pregnancies and 122 591 nonpregnant women. The age-adjusted melanoma incidence was 12.3/100 000 person-years (PYR) in pregnant women, which was significantly higher than 9.2/100 000 PYR in nonpregnant women. In fully adjusted models, the hazard ratio (HR) for melanoma incidence in pregnancy was 1.38 (95% CI: 1.24, 1.53) compared to nonpregnancy and the HR for melanoma-specific mortality was ca3bfb1094

At the start of Day 1, the Michigan State coach had one more thing to say about the job his team had done up to that point. "I thought we played pretty good ball today," Dantonio said. Apparently, he did. He didn't have a single complaint. The Wolverines played their best game since the early October showdown with Ohio State, outdueling Michigan State for the first time since the first two meetings of the year, winning by the final score of 49-17 and asserting themselves atop the Big Ten standings. Michigan State (3-0, 1-0 Big Ten) appeared stifled by the big stage for much of the first half, with the hosts looking more sluggish than usual and OSU freshman running back Zach Brown controlling the game from the outside. OSU's offense, in the form of Heisman hopeful Braxton Miller, was the surprise story of the day, scoring touchdowns of 96, 11, 53 and 81 yards before halftime to carry the Buckeyes to a 21-17 halftime lead. Miller finished with six total touchdowns and 117 yards rushing and passing, while backup running back Dontre Wilson contributed 36 yards on the ground. The biggest surprise of the first half was Michigan State's defense, which was ineffective early on against the Buckeyes' explosive attack but then stepped up and frustrated OSU's
