Create network diagrams using embedded image files. Now you can embed files into AutoCAD drawings to create network diagrams with no extra steps. (video: 2:20 min.) Draw titles that look more like type on a printed page. Now you can easily define a new font for your titles, or even use the type face of your choice. (video: 2:45 min.) Your browser does not support the video tag. Add, edit and merge scales in a new tool, extending the best features of scale bars and type conversion. The powerful new scale tools make it easy to view multiple parts of a model on the same scale. (video:

2:15 min.) Create annotations that can be printed and placed on a model. Now you can create separate annotation objects, and customize them to represent whatever you want, such as a diagram of parts, a label for a certain feature or dimension, and so on. (video: 1:25 min.) A new default font for drawing labels is much more legible. Labels are now displayed in a new bold, gray font, which is highly legible when printed. (video: 2:20 min.) Build detailed type and text objects and you can use labels to quickly and easily apply that type. Now you can create a text label in a standard location, and assign that text to a specific name. You can also create text labels that consist of various fonts or typefaces, giving you more flexibility than ever before. (video: 2:15 min.) There's also a great new integration between AutoCAD and the Affinity Designer plugin. Designers and CAD users can work together on the same drawings. When you design with Affinity Designer, you can quickly and easily convert your graphics into fully editable AutoCAD graphics. And vice versa. (video: 2:45 min.) The new 3D Warehouse makes it easy to discover and add 3D objects to your models. The 3D Warehouse now lets you search through millions of 3D CAD models and add them to your drawings. (video: 1:35 min.) By adding some easy design steps, you can now easily create and edit 2D symbols. You can easily add shapes, curves and text to symbols by using the new symbol style palette. Just press "Create Symbol," choose your design from the symbol style palette, and voilà! (video: 1:10 min
