12/15/2018 · Injection moulding or injection molding (abbreviated I.M.) is a manufacturing technology in which a molten material is transferred directly to the mold through a needle orifice. Because the molten material does not have to go through any kind of cavity, it does not require the material to flow through complicated channels. Injection molding is a mass production method, and is used to make many things, ranging from everyday products such as shoes to large-scale expensive parts such as cars. The process of making items with injection molding involves: 1) injecting molten plastic or resin into a mold (also known as an injection mold) 2) Pye RGW (1983) Injection mould design: a design manual for the thermoplastics industry..
