East Coast Large Cars Annual Truck Show [Updated]

This software is designed to assist you in conducting a truck show, with modules for voting, sales, expenses and vendors. The voting system automatically determines the winners for each class. KEYMACRO includes a separate window for each contestant, allowing you to track their progress and see the results of their voting for each class. The graphics for the program are integrated with the window style, enabling a professional look for your show. The program is well documented and the source code is available for you to modify as you wish. KEYMACRO also includes modules for sales management, expenses and vendors. These modules provide a complete financial tracking and management system that also provides an audit trail of all your show receipts and records. You can also use the software to manage vehicle valuation with all possible options including vehicle history. The software also enables you to enter vehicle parts, accessories and your personal notes. I use this Application to manage the details of the Charity motorcycle ride I am organising to raise money for the MS Society. Sites like ToB and Google Maps are great for pulling together road route maps, but they are not easily used for displaying data from specific locations, and they do not record details like mileage, velocity, time and elevation. The dmaps application includes a tool for dynamically plotting data on a map. With dmaps, you can download data from a GPS device, or plot data manually entered into the dmaps application by location and time. Ensure your data is visible on the map by plotting a waypoint and overlaying the data in the field. If you have multiple locations or need to edit the data, the dmaps application saves the location and time and restores it later.

Q: Dealloc ViewController Error Tried to remove all the code from viewController, and i keep getting this error message -[_UIViewController setTitle:]: unrecognized selector sent to instance 0x7aac3a0
